
Senior Economist

About Fideres?

We are a rapidly growing and innovative consulting firm with staff of 20. We have an extended network of over 15 Consulting Academics who co-operate with us to provide state of the art research and analysis to our clients.

Fideres has two complementary business lines:

- Consulting: providing economic and financial research (pricing, economic analysis, statistical analysis) to analyse complex financial legal claims and estimate damages;
- Litigation funding: investing our own and third party capital in the funding of financial claims, a new and emerging asset class.

We are hiring economist and econometricians for our London and NY office. We sponsor work VISAs in the UK.

Role Responsibilities

- Overseeing projects and managing a small team of quantitative analysts
- Conducting detailed economic and statistical analysis of market manipulation or anti-trust allegations as part of the delivery of Fideres' consulting mandates
- Writing comprehensive reports that summarize the key findings of our analysis in a simple, succinct manner
- Verbally presenting key findings internally to the management team and to clients in a manner that allows them to understand both the results and how they impact their own clients

Required Skills

- 2-5 years of experience in a financial or economic analyst role, e.g. banking, fund management, accounting, economic or management consultancy, corporate finance
- Strong analytical and numerical skills, especially financial and/or economic analysis and econometric/statistics
- Proficiency in R, Python or similar statistical software
- Exceptional interpersonal skills and capacity to work in a team under tight deadlines
- Excellent communication skills and ability to engage in face-to-face conversations with clients and prospects with confidence
- Ability to write about complex issues in simple terms, understandable by those with no financial background
- Commercial instinct and astute business judgment

Required Attributes

- Strong fairness ethics
- Responsive to client needs and able to deliver solutions that meet those needs
- Takes the initiative
- Self-motivated to perform in a demanding business environment and to assume a wide range of responsibilities
- Innovative and consistently looking to improve processes
- Focused on delivery and committed to seeing projects through to their close
- Strong attention to detail
- Not afraid to express an opinion and offer new solutions

Application Procedure

Please submit your CV and Cover Letter explaining your motivation to join Fideres and your interest in the role offered to:

careers@fideres.com